ROMMEL FORCES REPORTED FALLING BACK

Axis Pressure On El Alamein Line Appears Relieved

Cairo, Sept. 4—(AP)—Combined action by the U. S. army air forces, the RAF and hard-hitting British mechanized units appeared today to have wrested the initiative momentarily from Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, relieving Axis pressure on the southern end of the El Alamein line.

Under a steady pounding from the air and on the land, a British communique announced, powerful enemy armored forces concentrated in the Ruweisat-Hemeimat sector in apparent preparation for an attempt to turn the British left flank, withdrew slightly to the westward yesterday.

The bulletin said the aerial bombardment to which the enemy was subjected yesterday had exceeded that of the previous day—which smashed all records for the North African campaign.

Despite the scope of the air operations British headquarters reported that all the Allied bombers had returned safely. Six Axis planes were shot down during the day.

There was comparatively little air activity over the battlefield, not a German dive bomber appearing over the lines.

While the Axis withdrawal in the Ruweisat-Hemeimat sector appeared to have relieved the situation temporarily, military observers warned against too much optimism, pointing out that the battle still is in its preliminary phases and that both sides are merely jockeying for position.

Rommel, they said, has not yet suffered crippling losses to his armored strength and there is no indication that he is trying to avoid a showdown.

The Axis chieftain has brought up to the battle line vast supplies for an offensive—including sufficient gasoline to feed his mechanized forces for 10 days of hard fighting.

The RAF, aided by the United States army air forces, kept these supply dumps under an almost continual hail of bombs.

In Cairo the RAF issued a statement declaring the Axis had lost 2,582 planes in combat over the desert since the start of the war and putting losses of the United Nations at 1,503 planes.

Thus far this year, the statement said, Axis losses total 1,417 planes and British losses 1,114.

Bold Action On Tax Plan Is Advocated

Washington, Sept. 4—(P)—Urged by Secretary Morgenthau to take "bold action" toward providing non-inflationary war financing, the senate finance committee weighed today a treasury-sponsored "spending" tax plan and proposals for a flat-rate levy on retail sales and services.

With more than a majority expressing opposition to the $6,500,000,000 additional revenue program laid before the group by Morgenthau, some committee members said the effect of the treasury's new proposal had been to force a showdown between it and a sales tax.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said he believed Morgenthau had left no course open to the committee but to vote substantially the $6,271,000,000 yield in additional taxes provided by the house-approved revenue bill.

The Morgenthau plan would call for a 10 per cent levy on all the unexpended expenditures of single persons who earned more than $500 a year and of married persons with incomes of more than $1,000. The latter would be given additional exemptions of $250 for each dependent.

Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 4—(P)—Four members of the crew of an Allied ship were killed and six injured when a torpedo was sent crashing into its hull by a submarine off the southeast coast of Australia, it was disclosed today after the ship reached port.

New York, Sept. 4—(P)—The British radio broadcast a Stockholm report today saying the big Danish cellulose products factory at Albany, near Copenhagen, had been destroyed by an explosion attributed to sabotage.

London, Sept. 4—(P)—A small force of RAF bombers attacked targets on the northwest coast of Germany during the night, the air ministry announced today.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 4—(P)—The army is training a streamlined version of the "sky pilots" of the first World War—chaplains who will be expert in fingerprinting so that there will be fewer unknown soldiers' graves on the battlefields of this war.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 4—(P)—Continuing a roundup of enemy liars started soon after Pearl Harbor, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents visited more than 70 homes in New Jersey last night and made that E. E. Conroy, assistant FBI director, described as "numerous liars."

JAPS BLASTED HEAVILY IN FAR PACIFIC

American and Allied Planes Swarm Across Skies on a 3,500-Mile "Front"

CASUALTIES MOUNTING

By the Associated Press
American and Allied warplanes, swarming across the far Pacific skies on a 3,500-mile "front," were credited with inflicting havoc on Japan's invasion armies from China to the Solomon Islands in the south seas.

In China, a bulletin from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced that U. S. army fliers scored direct bomb hits on Japanese headquarters at Nanchang, blasted a fleet of 25 big troop-laden junks and probably sank seven Japanese steamers.

"Heavy casualties were inflicted on the Japanese and a number of boats were burned," Gen. Stilwell reported.

"Another flight strafed a Japanese troop train of 12 cars going north on the Kiuikiang-Nanchang railway. The train was loaded with army trucks, artillery and horses. The locomotive was destroyed and heavy damage caused to material.

In the afternoon, American fighters bombed Nanchang. In a congested Japanese area, northwest of the town, many hits were scored, with direct hits on a headquarters and large warehouses.

These were merely the highlights of a devastating U. S. aerial offensive carried out with the loss of only a single American plane.

Moreover, U. S. air force "Sky Dragons," as admiring Chinese describe them, were reported to have shot down five Japanese planes yesterday in a battle over Kweilin, in Chekiang province.

In the southwest Pacific, Allied bombers set big fires raging in the Japanese base at Salamaua, New Guinea; bombed enemy supply planes at Faisi, destroyed fuel dumps at Buka and targets at Kieta, all in the upper Solomons; bombed and machine-gunned Japanese troops in the Kokoda area, New Guinea, and pounded sea-borne Japanese forces in the lower Solomons.

At sea the navy in Washington reported, U. S. submarines, striking at Japan's far-drawn lines of supply, sank five more enemy ships, including a light cruiser—making a total of 99 Japanese vessels sunk or damaged by American undersea craft since Pearl Harbor.

The navy said U. S. marines reported today that they had captured a Japanese prisoner of war.

Gurney's proposal, offered as an amendment to the selective service act, was referred to the military committee. Reynolds said he would send it to the war department immediately for its study and recommendation.

Senator Bilbo (D-Miss.) argued it was better to draft married men, for whose dependents he said congress "has provided generously" than to send "tender-age" youths into combat. He said married men had "a little more to fight for than boys still in school."

OPA Charges Too Many War Workers Are Wasting Tires

Educational Campaign To Teach Need of Conservation Is Planned

WARNING IS ISSUED

Philadelphia, Sept. 4—(P)—The Office of Price Administration charged today that many Pennsylvania war workers are wasting their tires on unnecessary travel and fail to understand the seriousness of the rubber shortage.

R. F. Ashenfelter, state director, said OPA will intensify an "educational campaign to teach the need for conservation."

"A tire is issued to a war worker not as a reward or a point of special privilege," he said, "but to assure the worker of on-time arrival at his point of work x x x. It is issued because it is a vital part of the worker's equipment and for no other reason."

"Knowing they are eligible for more tires when those they have wear out, too many are conscious only of the routine of rationing and not of the reasons for it," he said.

"Some workers interpret too liberally the allowance made for limited and necessary use of their cars in the phrasing of the regulation which requires that the workers' car be used 'principally' for travel between home and job."

Ashenfelter added that some workers neglect "measures which would prolong the serviceability of their tires."

Necessity of Lower Draft Age Debated

Washington, Sept. 4—(P)—Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) of the senate military affairs committee declared today he would ask the war department for a formal recommendation "as to the necessity" of drafting youths of 18 and 19 into the armed forces.

Reynolds told reporters he would be guided "by the decision of our military leaders" in his consideration of a proposal, introduced yesterday by Senator Gurney (D-SD), to lower the minimum induction age from 20 to 18 and thus tap a reservoir of upwards of 2,000,000 men.

Gurney's proposal, offered as an amendment to the selective service act, was referred to the military committee. Reynolds said he would send it to the war department immediately for its study and recommendation.

Senator Bilbo (D-Miss.) argued it was better to draft married men, for whose dependents he said congress "has provided generously" than to send "tender-age" youths into combat. He said married men had "a little more to fight for than boys still in school."

UPHEAVAL IN SPAIN FAVORS ALLIED CAUSE

Commentators Consider Change in Cabinet As Rebuff For Hitler and His Partners

MANEUVER IS STUDIED

By the Associated Press
The ouster of Nazi-loving Ramon Serrano Suner as Spanish foreign minister and Falange leader was regarded generally by Allied commentators today as a rebuff for Adolf Hitler if not a definite gain for the United Nations.

Spain's position between British guns at Gibraltar and German guns in occupied France, President Roosevelt's proposal of post-war assistance in her reconstruction and traditional bonds linking Madrid with Latin American governments now largely arrayed against the Axis were variously cited.

A wait-and-see attitude, however, was adopted by prominent Spanish Republicans refugee in Mexico City.

Former Premier Indalecio Prieto said "it would not be going too far" to suspect the shakeup announced in Madrid yesterday was a maneuver to give Generalissimo Francisco Franco time to mull his future policy around the outcome of the new Axis offensive in Egypt.

Franco, the brothers-in-law of Serrano Suner, himself took over as council chief of the Falange, the only authorized political movement within Spain since the close of her civil war.

The foreign ministry went to Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, veteran soldier-statesman, a conservative Nationalist who also held the post when the United States recognized Franco's government April 1, 1939.

Alexander W. Wedell, former U. S. ambassador to Spain, said that the shift of foreign ministers "might be fairly translated as an indication that relations with the United States" would be examined with more moderation.

Franco may have been influenced by the fact that the United States had just announced a new policy of "strategic defense" which would require a more active role for the United States in the defense of Europe.

Accusations Against FBI Made By Dies

Washington, Sept. 4—(P)—The FBI and the Dies committee were set up sharp odds today over the extent of subversiveness among federal employees.

Chairman Dies (D-Tex.), accusing Attorney General Francis Biddle of having "failed utterly" to comply with congressional wishes, asked the house to reject a justice department report which criticized the committee indirectly for sending the FBI on a time-consuming search for disloyal government workers.

Dies, head of the special committee set up four years ago to investigate subversive activities, made his request in a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn in which he referred to a recent act of congress asking the FBI to make the check up.

The justice department, the Texas charged, did not want the assignment in the first place and "it is not strange that nothing but an attempt to smear our committee has resulted x x x."

Biddle's report said that as a result of 2,095 investigations, including many suggested by the Dies committee, only 36 government workers had been fired and 13 others disciplined. This result, he added, was "utterly disproportionate to the resources expended."

Harvest Picnic And Scrap Roundup Planned

How can the farmers of Warren County most quickly enlist in the vital campaign to turn their plowshares into swords and their pruning hooks into spears?

The answer was supplied this morning by B. S. Knabenshue, chairman of the Warren County Salvage for Victory committee, with the announcement of a gigantic Harvest Picnic and Scrap Roundup to be held Friday, September 25, in Crescent Park.

Mr. Knabenshue stated, "will be the focal point of an intensive drive to enlist every piece of scrap metal from the farms, whether it be as small as an old horseshoe overlooked in the weeds behind the barn, or a discarded piece of farm machinery which has been gathering cobwebs in an almost-forgotten tool-shed. Surveys show that there is a considerable amount of such salvage still on the farms of the county which is desperately needed by our factories. All other forms of scrap are wanted, too, with the sole exception of present of paper and tin cans."

Fine entertainment will be provided for the farmers and their families in the form of eatables, refreshments, games, contests, music, military displays, and a host of features which will make this the biggest event of its kind in the history of the county. The only admission ticket will be a weight sheet showing that the farmer has weighed in his scrap either at the picnic grounds in Warren or at one of the depots which will be established throughout the county. Farmers are not expected to donate their scrap but to sell it at the prevailing market price. Warren manufacturers, merchants, professional men, and plain citizens will raise the money to finance the picnic in a big patriotic effort in which no one will be the gainer except Uncle Sam and

F. Clair Ross, Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, headed a group of prominent members of the party in the state, on a brief visit to Warren early this afternoon enroute east from Farrell, where he was the principal speaker at a rally last evening.

In the Ross party was John Brecht, of Venango county, Democratic candidate for congressman. They were greeted by a number of leading members of the party in Warren county, and after having lunch at the Carver Hotel, spent some time conferring about the campaign in this area.

Walter M. Dear, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association and publisher of the Jersey Journal at Jersey City, N. J., got a unanimous show of hands when he asked permission to name a committee to initiate a plan modeled after the "Nebraska plan."

This was a three-week campaign conducted by the Omaha World-Herald, which netted 100 pounds of scrap for every man, woman and child in Nebraska.

Nelson told the newspapermen that the salvage campaign "is now being chieftainship material and producing armament at a greater rate than had been thought possible."

Nelson said an all-out salvage effort would have to include abandoned railroads, old bridges and old buildings.

Lieut. Gen. Brechon Somervell, chief of the army services of supply, reported that arms production schedules for September and October were so great as to exceed the capacity to provide materials, and that schedules in the months following would be much heavier.

The job of the newspapers, said Vice Admiral S. M. Robinson, chief of the navy's bureau of procurement and material, is to "shock the people into a realization of our true state of affairs," and to prove that the salvage campaign "is no boondoggling gesture to build synthetic morale."

A minimum of 17,000,000 tons of iron and steel scrap must be rounded up in the last six months of this year to prevent the steel industry's furnaces from shutting down, it was estimated by Paul Cabot, deputy director of WPE's conservation division.

Publishers To Sponsor Scrap Drive

But Two Weeks' Supply In Hands of Steel Mills, Nelson Declares

NEED VERY PRESSING

Washington, Sept. 4—(P)—Representatives of the nation's newspaper publishers accepted the assignment today to undertake a gigantic scrap salvage campaign, spurred by a statement from WPE Chairman Donald M. Nelson that "we're not doing a very good job of winning this war."

Nelson's appeal for the campaign, voiced at a meeting of 200 publishers and editors, was backed by the declaration of R. W. Wolcott, president of Lukens Steel Company, Coatesville, Pa., that "there are only two weeks' supply of steel scrap in the country in the hands of steel mills."

"Unless a miracle happens, two weeks' supply of scrap will be gone in two weeks," Wolcott, chairman of the American Industries' Salvage Committee, told the group. "San Francisco is in bad shape, Pittsburgh and Youngstown are in horrible shape."

ADVANCE OF ENEMY SAID TO BE COSTLY

Soviet News Agency States That Desperate Battle Is Waging at Approaches To Volga City

HITLER IS REINFORCED

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY
Moscow, Sept. 4—(AP)—Field Marshal Fedor von Bock beat against Stalingrad with 25 divisions today in an effort to capitalize on wedges driven systematically into its defenses, but Red army men were reported to have counterattacked with a violence that regained some ground northwest of the city.

Germans striking from the southwest again succeeded in making a slight advance at enormous cost, the mid-day war bulletin reported.

Tass, Russian news agency, spoke of fighting upon "the immediate approaches to the town" and said "the Hitlerites' tank columns decimated in previous engagements have been considerably replenished."

The battles "have no precedent in their violence," the military newspaper Red Star said. It reported pilots from Egypt had joined the enemy's air squadrons while ground troops from France were among the 25 Axis divisions assigned from a 1,000,000-man army for the assault upon Stalingrad, commercial heart of the Volga basin and a gateway to the Caspian.

Red army men fighting within the Don bend around Kletskaya, harassing the Axis detachments moving eastward across the Caspian steppes, occupied another village and repulsed several counterattacks, the communique announced.

The Germans gained a strategic height in the battle for Novorossiysk, Soviet naval base on the Black Sea by weight of superior numbers, it was announced.

Elsewhere in that sector, however, the Russians were reported to have repulsed several counterattacks, the communique announced.

Retired Army Colonel To Be Supply Pastor

With its pastor, Rev. Edward K. Rogers, commissioned a lieutenant and serving as chaplain with American armed forces overseas, the First Lutheran church will extend a welcome on Sunday to a retired colonel of the United States Army, who will supply the pulpit here for the duration.

The newcomer is Dr. Herbert A. Rinard, who comes with Mrs. Rinard from Randolph Field, Texas, to make his home in Warren.

Retired from army ranks this month, he was honored in January of this year with a commission as colonel in recognition of his services since 1917. He served as a chaplain overseas in World War I, was later a chaplain at Fort Niagara, N. Y., with the Air Corps in Honolulu and at Fort Slocum. He was also for a time executive officer in the chief of chaplains' office in Washington, D. C.

A graduate of Gettysburg College and its Theological Seminary, he received his doctor of divinity degree at Thiel College in Greenville.

He first came to Warren as guest preacher in July of this year and will occupy the pulpit and deliver his initial sermon on Sunday morning.

Milk Bottle Deposit Plan Is Extended

State-wide extension of the milk bottle deposit plan was predicted today by John H. McKee, chairman of the Milk Control Commission at Harrisburg.

The system, which requires all customers to deposit a nickel for each bottle purchased at stores, was first started in Harrisburg. Later the plan was put into effect in Philadelphia and also included a one-cent deposit on bottles delivered at homes.

The deposit plan, McKee said, was designed to conserve materials and labor and effect other savings through a better collection of bottles.

"We have held hearings on requests for the plan in the Johnstown area and in the counties of Clearfield, Centre, Mifflin and Bedford," the chairman explained, adding that the orders "have been prepared" and "will be issued soon."

"We are favorable to the deposit plan," he added, "where we find a willingness to comply with orders. The plan is difficult to enforce where cooperation is lacking."

LABOR DAY THOUGHTS

The annual festival of Labor Day, tip-toeing in between summer and autumn and facing both ways, is probably regarded by most people as simply a welcome holiday. If the weather is fine, it's a success, and if not, it may be regarded as a dead loss. People are not sentimental about it. Censorship rules forbid giving publicity to forecasts for the week-end, thus it behooves readers of the Times-Mirror to use their own judgment in planning for the triple holiday.

Labor Day was sponsored originally by the Knights of Labor, first general trade union organization in this country, which had much more resemblance to the present-day C. I. O. than to the A. F. of L.

Quite naturally, perhaps, we have come to think of Labor Day as the particular property of those workers who are organized into trade unions—the ones of whom we speak, reverently or fearfully, as Labor with a capital "L."

But since this year we are fighting a bloody war for the preservation of democracy, let's talk about democratic labor—with the small "l"—which comprises perhaps 85 or 90 per cent of those who work for a living.

Because of the shortsightedness and sometimes the selfishness of certain union officials, Labor—with the capital "L"—has brought upon itself frequent severe denunciation.

But Labor is made up largely of laborers. And the record will show that labor—the men who actually do the work—has proven itself as actively, sacrificially patriotic as any element in our population.

Because of our geographical position, because of our vast natural resources and because of our productive capacity, the anti-Axis world is forced to depend upon the United States for much of the material of war.

Upon the shoulders of American labor the fate of the world rests today. If labor continues to come through as it has been doing, totalitarianism can be whipped. If labor were to let down, as nobody has the right to expect that it will, then all the courage of all the soldiers and sailors of the United Nations cannot save us.

The point to be kept in mind is that democracy depends upon American labor, not American Labor. The first, without the capital "L," includes the 85 per cent who are not unionized, plus probably 99 per cent of those who do belong to unions.

The boys in the front lines look for their weapons and munitions to the men at the machines—not to the relatively few union officials who show an inclination sometimes to forget that this is not their private war.

The men behind the machines are you and us, the folk with whom we brush shoulders on the street, in buses and trolleys and elevators.

Give them a chance to speak for themselves, and these millions are as willing to sacrifice for the preservation of democracy as any loud-voiced street-corner orator.

So on Labor Day this year let's forget that the first Monday in September used to be dedicated to Labor, and in the brief moment that we can spare from production for war, let us remember that labor should not be branded for sins of a few of its self-proclaimed oracles.

GLASS IN THE GUTTER

The man who left glass, nails and similar tire-destroyers in the gutter never could have won a popularity contest among his neighbors. Now, when rubber is more precious than much gold, he invites deserved chastisement.

But more than that, he is opening himself to the justifiable description of war saboteur. For tires have ceased to be matters solely of private concern. They are a major weapon against the enemy.

For patriotism, if not from common decency, let's keep glass out of the gutters and out of the streets, and give our poor, thin, irreplaceable tires a chance.

Tuesday will be a big day for that throng of youngsters who will be getting off to school for the first time. Here's luck to you, kiddies!

If you have been taking a vacation along with your minister, Sunday will be a good time to resume your church going.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations.—Revelation 2:26.

And we shall be made truly wise if we be made content; content, too, not only with what we can understand, but content with what we do not understand—the habit of mind which theologians call—and rightly—in God.—Charles Kingsley.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JOHN GROVER
(For Jack Stinnett On Vacation)

WASHINGTON—Even educated Americans have a slightly Hollywood idea of India, with somewhat less than no real knowledge of the country's basic problems. That's the word of Sirdar J. Singh, president of the India League of America, now in the capital urging U. S. aid in resolving the Indian crisis.

The religious problem, Singh avers, is strictly a manufactured bogeyman. There are roughly 275,000,000 Hindus in India. Singh says in their day-to-day, rubbing-elbows living, there is no more friction than between Roman Catholics and Protestants in the U. S.

Singh—a former member of Gandhi's All India Congress party, but a resident of the U. S. for 17 years—cites Gandhi's willingness to accept an all-Moslem governing council as proof of the fact that independence, and not religious domination, is the basic motivation of Indian Hindus.

There are, Singh admits, religious crackpots in India, narrow, bigoted and vicious. But India has no monopoly on such specimens.

Just now there is a vocal but insignificant group in India advocating "Pakistan," which is severance of Moslem India from the mother country, with the ultimate aim of joining the Moslem provinces with Afghanistan, Iran, Iraq, Syria, Turkey and Egypt in a vast Pan-Moslem Empire. Hindus and responsible Indian Moslems—Singh cited the Moslem governors of three Moslem states—oppose any partition of India.

The Indian religious issue has been made a political football for generations. Britain has insisted on composition of the religious question before talking Indian freedom, but Singh says there is more than a suspicion that some of the "religious riot" in the past,

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Marvin Kohn, a young man of ideas, is the head of one of the most flexible organizations in New York. This is the National Campus Press Club, composed, he says, of the editors of 1,200 college and high school newspapers. It came into being something like this:

Several years ago when Marvin Kohn was an undergraduate (he is only 19 now) at Theodore Roosevelt High School, he had a craving to meet celebrities. He wanted to interview them. At that time he was managing the football team and writing sports for the school paper, yet he still knew an urge to talk to Hollywood celebrities and explorers returning from lonely Arctic vigils.

He reasoned: "If I call up and say Marvin Kohn of Roosevelt High wants an interview they'll laugh. . . . But if I have numbers, if I represent a hundred school editors, that'll put some weight behind it. They can't laugh that off."

The club was formed, and its activities at once became varied and many.

SAY, for instance, Miss Dimples Twinkletoes, Amalgamated's newest starlet, is due to arrive at Grand Central at 8:05 in the morning. Not many people know Miss Twinkletoes, yet. So Amalgamated puts in a call for Marvin Kohn. Presto! In the morning, when Miss Twinkletoes gets in, a cheering mob of 500 coeds from the New York high schools is howling a reception that even Garbo wouldn't ignore.

Not only for the starlets, but even for you—for a sum—will Marvin Kohn have his greeters on hand, any hour, any station.

Suppose, again, that a noted football player, or coach, comes to town. It might make good local reading to have him greeted, say, by the captains of ten high school football teams. Marvin Kohn can get you those captains. On the other hand, if you're an orchestra leader, he can get you ten, or 20, student orchestras. He can get you 40 slim drum majorettes. He can get you anything you need.

LAST year his club held two-hour mass interviews on the air each Saturday. He plans a shorter 30-minute show this season, with interviews by high school editors with celebrities of all walks of life—generals, actors, explorers, manufacturers, aviators.

Marvin Kohn, who lives in the Bronx and who spends his Saturday evenings serving as hat check boy for the Stage Door Canteen, thinks the club has well served the cause of undergraduate journalism. It's easy, he says, if only you get behind it, and push.

Schools Open In Conewango Next Tuesday

Conewango township schools will adhere to the same schedule as those of Warren borough in opening for the fall term and 400 pupils will enter North Warren and Starbuck buildings for classes on Tuesday morning, September 8.

Both buildings begin the school year with new supervising principals. Carl W. Johnson, who has been principal at Starbuck, will go to North Warren as township supervising principal, building principal and eighth grade instructor, succeeding J. R. Reddick, principal for 12 years, who comes to Warren High School's faculty.

At Starbuck, the principal will be Floyd L. Potter, who becomes assistant supervising principal for the township.

Also new to the 250 pupils at North Warren will be Mrs. Elizabeth Allen Henderson, of Sheffield, employed to teach second grade as successor to Mrs. Dorothea Blair Loper, retired; Miss Winifred Smith, of Tidoute, for first grade, succeeding Miss Dorothy Lincoln, who also comes to Warren borough.

Other instructors at the North Warren building are Miss Amelia Chandler, third grade; Miss Betty Blair, fourth grade; Miss Teresa Pagley, fifth grade; Miss Evelyn Anderson, sixth grade; Mrs. Juanita Johnson, seventh grade.

On the faculty for Starbuck's 150 students are Mrs. Arlene Johnson, wife of the North Warren principal, who will teach first, second and third grades; Mrs. Mabel Keller, fourth and fifth grades; Miss Marie Gaghan, fifth and sixth grades; and Principal Potter, seventh and eighth grades.

OUR MEN IN SERVICE

It will interest friends of Cpl. Kenneth L. Nelson, son of Mrs. John Carlson, 54 Clark street, to learn that he was one of the chosen for special training at the hands of Major Francois d'Eliscu at Fort Meade, Md., on Monday of this week. At that time Major d'Eliscu began his instruction in the art of jiu jitsu, boxing, wrestling and the new hand to hand fighting called judo, in which he is considered an expert. Upon completion of the course, the Warren soldier will be placed in charge of instructing others in his company in the same principles.

Lt. Archie Densmore, who has completed his course of instruction at the Fort Benning, Ga., officers' training school and spent a furlough with his wife and family at North Warren, left Tuesday for a new station at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Two former Spring Creek men, Everett L. Greeley, 18, and Marion G. Traipp, are fast becoming bluejackets for Uncle Sam's Navy at Great Lakes, Ill. They reported to the U. S. naval training station there last week to begin recruit training, prior to being assigned berths with the U. S. fleet. In recruit training, these men are gaining valuable experience in the fundamentals of military drill, seamanship, and naval procedure.

Women Asked To Enroll In Volunteer Nurses' Aid Corps

"For women who sincerely wish to help in the war, the Volunteer Nurse's Aid Corps of the American Red Cross offers the highest type of service," Mrs. W. E. Lutz, chairman of the Nurse's Aide committee of the Warren County Chapter, stated today in announcing the part the chapter will play in the nationwide Red Cross effort to recruit women for this service during September.

As more and more doctors and nurses have been called into active duty with the American forces, the need for trained help in health services at home has become imperative, officials point out. Every month 3,000 nurses must come out of hospital and private homes throughout the country to care for the sick and wounded men in uniform. This means an acute shortage of nurses on the home front which the Red Cross is seeking to relieve by stepping up its quotas of Volunteer Nurse's Aides.

The Warren Chapter, Mrs. Lutz pointed out, has been asked to treble its quota for the classes which will be trained this fall.

Any woman between the ages of 18 and 50, in good health and with a high school education or its equivalent, may qualify for training, which consists of 36 hours of classroom work and 45 hours of supervised practice in hospital ward. Graduates then receive their caps and pins, which, together with the blue uniforms and white blouses with the Red Cross O.C.D. insignia on the left sleeve, make them full fledged members of the Red Cross Volunteer Nurse's Aide Corps. After training, the Nurse's Aide is expected to serve a minimum of three hours a week assisting the graduate nurses in the hospital wards, accident rooms and clinics.

Mrs. Lutz urged women meeting the requirements for this volunteer service to call or visit Red Cross headquarters, where a member of the committee will be on duty from two until four September 8 to 12 to answer questions and take enrollments.

"Only by enlisting the services of patriotic women in this corps," Mrs. Lutz concluded, "can we hope to maintain our civilian health service and be ready for any emergency."

Large Amount Of Building In the State

Large increases in the values of homes, factories and improvements to non-residential structures resulted in a July total of about 17 million dollars as compared to only three million for June. The current value figure was, however, 11 per cent below the total for last July when extensive residential construction was in progress, the Department of Labor and Industry reports.

Public works, reported thus far for July, were valued at $6,370,000. Last month only $211,000 was allotted for public construction and during July 1941, the total was about five and three-quarter millions.

Permits were issued this month for 654 housekeeping dwellings valued at $2,651,000 and accommodating 752 families. Construction has, or will be started on 24 factories estimated to cost $11,746,000. War and Navy Department regulations of course, prevent the disclosure of the location of these projects.

Over the past two years reports from 220 municipalities showed a 22 per cent value decrease. Since the beginning of August, 1941, building officials in these 220 cities and boroughs issued 47,593 permits for operations estimated to cost $170,322,000.

Each of the three major types showed a value decrease from last year: Residential from 84.8 millions to 82.4; non-residential from 104.1 millions to 64.3; and improvements from 27.3 millions to 22.4.

Warren, according to a report released by Secretary Lewis G. Hines of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, spent nothing for new residential buildings, new non-residential buildings, or improvements, but showed expenditures of an estimated $100,342 for all types of building operations for which permits were issued.

This is a decrease of about $33,000 from the $133,449 spent in 1940-41, and a decrease of 19 per cent from the 46 issued in 1940-41.

BOYS ARE CAUTIONED

With football season coming in to its own again, the future stars of Warren High school grid teams have taken to renewing several neighborhood grid rivalries with borough streets as playing fields. The practice brought a warning from borough police today to stay out of streets and take advantage of playgrounds for playing their football contests.

WOLF PUP ESCAPES

According to the Kane Republican, Dr. E. H. McElreath's wolf farm is minus one of the pups from last spring's litter today as a result of its escape from the park midway between Kane and Mt. Jewett Monday afternoon. The little animal, which crawled under a gate at four o'clock Monday afternoon, was found a short time later in a nearby orchard and was shot. Dr. McElreath said the pup was not a good specimen and it was decided to shoot it rather than attempt to capture it alive.

POLITICAL FORUM

Articles appearing in this department are submitted by representatives of the various political parties in Warren county and are not intended to reflect the views or opinions of the publisher

DEMOCRATIC

Farrell, Sept. 4. (P)—Auditor General F. Clair Ross, opening his Democratic campaign for election as governor, charged that the Republican party's "old guard has neither died nor surrendered" and that "the men with big money" are backing the candidacy of Adjutant General Edward Martin, Republican nominee.

"We're here to start a fight," said Ross in an address last night at Farrell's city park in his native Mercer county. "We like it because we are going to take on an arrogant set of men who think they can use the fog to obscure their intent to capture and to hold the government of Pennsylvania as an instrument of reaction and economic privileges."

Ross began his campaign in a setting reminiscent of old-time political rallies, red flares lighting the park and the speaking platform. State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence opened the gathering before a audience which Police Chief John Spisito estimated at about 3,000.

Ross declared Adjutant General Martin's Republican nomination was purchased by oil man Joseph N. Pew and former Senator Joseph H. Grundy. Ross estimated Pew and Grundy paid "roughly about a dollar a vote" and "without doubt, these men are ready to make their spending of the primary look like peanuts in the November election."

REPUBLICAN

Williams Grove, Sept. 4. (P)—"The greatest help that can be given to the farmer is to let him alone and let him produce and meanwhile see that he gets the best possible prices for what he does produce," Adjutant General Edward Martin said last night.

The Republican candidate for governor told several thousand persons at a farmers' meeting in this Cumberland county park near Harrisburg that "pressure groups" any kinds of groups seeking special privileges for themselves are out" and added the job of every citizen is to win the war.

"When I am governor, there will be no special favors," he declared in his first major speech of the election campaign. "I am not on the auction block, trading promises for votes."

The former commander of Pennsylvania's 28th division discussed wartime problems of farmers and reviewed his 40-year record as a soldier, auditor general, state treasurer and chairman of the state GOP committee.

Questioning the need of 90,000 persons on the payroll of the U. S. department of agriculture, Martin said: "I imagine you could use a lot of those 90,000 in your fields this fall. That is, if any of them know a plow from a sickle."

Methodist Society Starts New Season

The Isabelle Hazeltine Division of the First Methodist W. S. C. S. opened its fall season with a well-attended tureen dinner in Founders hall last evening. The business session and program followed in Dunham parlors, with the president, Mrs. G. R. Loe, in charge. Miss Emma Akins conducted devotions, with the assistance of ten other women. Mrs. R. W. Tranter, special music chairman, presented James Shortt in two beautiful vocal solos, for which Meredith Young played piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Latsch directed an interesting playlet, after which Mrs. T. E. Colley, program chairman, presented Mrs. David Skillman in an address on "Youth." This was interspersed with short talks by various members on schools in the mission fields.

Those who assisted in the devotions and play were Mrs. G. B. Young, Mrs. J. J. Young, Mrs. Howard Trusler, Mrs. Harry Baxter, Mrs. Harry Cogswell, Mrs. L. J. Holmes, Mrs. Stanley Cramer, Mrs. George Grosch, Mrs. R. L. Blodgett, Miss Edith Hazeltine, Mrs. Ira Brown and Miss Gladys Young.

To conclude, Mrs. Orrin Ensworth, a charter member of the society, spoke on "Migrant Children."

Social Events

EASTERN STARS BEGIN NEW SEASON
With a large attendance for the first fall meeting, members of the Order of Eastern Stars have a number of plans under way for a busy season. At this first session, Hazel Chesnut, past matron, conducted the service for dedicating a new altar and an affiliation ceremony was held.

It was decided to have a service flag for the chapter and members having husbands or sons in the service were asked to notify the matron, Ruth Brown. Members were also asked to note a change in the next regular meeting, to be held October 13 instead of October 6.

Those wishing to make reservations for the district banquet were asked to notify Beulah Krebs, Helen Braunschweiger or Lucy Miller.

ENGAGED TO OFFICER
Mr. and Mrs. Stuart T. Andersen, of Sugar Grove, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Mary M. Andersen, to Lieut. Lloyd L. Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Porter, of Chandler's Valley.

Both young people were graduated from Sugar Grove Joint Vocational School in 1938 and are well known here. Miss Andersen is employed in the office of the Struthers-Wells Corporation and Mr. Porter served as an officer in the United States Air Forces.

DUNHAM SOCIETY
The Lotta Dunham Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold its first fall meeting in the form of a tureen dinner at six o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Maria Swick, east Fifth avenue extension. Members are reminded that pledges are due at this time.

Harvest Picnic and Scrap Roundup Planned

the boys who are using the weapons.
While the Salvage Committee is organizing the event and the citizens of Warren are financing it, Mr. Knabenshue emphasized the responsibility for really putting it across will rest with 17 Warren County Granges and their 1,500 members, who are expected to throw themselves enthusiastically into the campaign under the slogan, "Farmer, Show Your Metal." At a meeting in the Court House August 31, officials of many Granges pledged their support. The Warren Grange, at its meeting Sept. 2, pledged its aid and is already in the field working for the Grand Prize. Other granges are expected to be on the job with their active committees within a day or two.

Prizes, details of which will be announced later, will include a grand prize going to the Grange which turns in the largest per capita weight of scrap. "Per capita" weight means that the total tonnage turned in by each Grange will be divided by the number of its members, so that the small Grange will have an equal chance with the large one. It was emphasized that members of the Granges, in their solicitations, need not confine their work to farmers who are members of the Grange. Scrap from non-members is equally desired, as, indeed, is scrap from sources other than farmers. Any scrap from any source is welcome and will be accredited to the Grange whose members secure it. Individual prizes will also be given.

On the general committee for the Harvest Picnic and Scrap Roundup are F. C. Kottcamp, chairman, B. S. Knabenshue, and W. H. Wright, in charge of the financing of the big event is H. B. Pettit, whose committee will begin Tuesday after Labor Day to make a blitz-time solicitation of all Warren factories and mercantile establishments. H. W. Conarro has accepted a post as chairman of the Industrial Section of this committee. Active workers who will be out at work Tuesday will include: F. G. Carter, J. C. Miller, Lee Stickle, F. A. Wood, Fred Printz, and Stewart Beckley. J. K. Bell has accepted the post of chairman of the social clubs division.

Other committees will be announced later.

Paging Fall
THIS is the fingertip-length, boxy fur jacket style that's big news in forthcoming fall-winter collections. Persian lamb is used here. Tiny shawl collar, armholes big enough to be comfortable over a suit and big sleeves are fashionable details. Less expensive wraps also take this beautifully simple design this year, because it's a natural with WPB-slim skirts.

Obituary
CHARLES B. BAILEY
Following an illness of several months, Charles B. Bailey, a lifelong resident of Warren county, passed away on Thursday afternoon. He was born May 8, 1866, the son of Benjamin and Katherine Hill Bailey.

He was united in marriage with Mattie J. Bryan, who preceded him in death in 1937. To this union were born two children, Mrs. Jesse Knapp, of Clarendon, and Bernard E. Bailey, of Fenton, Mich. Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Fred Schuler, Warren, R. D. 3, and a brother, Russell F. Bailey, of 215 Canton street, this city; two granddaughters, Miss Dorothy Knapp, of Clarendon, and Mrs. Harold Carlson, Cory; and two great-grandchildren.

For 35 years he was employed by the Struthers-Wells Corporation, retiring five years ago. He was a member of Grace Methodist church and his retired pastor, Dr. J. H. Clemens, will conduct funeral services at three o'clock Saturday afternoon from the Peterson Funeral Home. Interment will be made in Oakland cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

CARD OF THANKS

DR. WRIGHT ON BOARD

At a recent meeting of the board of trustees of Allegheny College, held at the Duquesne Club, Pittsburgh, Dr. Bruce S. Wright, pastor of the First Methodist church of Erie, who has his summer home near Kane, was elected a member of a special committee to select and recommend to the entire board successor to Dr. William P. Tolley, president of Allegheny. A New York newspaper editor and writer, William Preston Beazell, is chairman of the special committee. Dr. Tolley, after ten years of leadership at Allegheny, goes October 1 to the chancellorship of Syracuse University.

LUNCEFORD HOLDS RECORD IN HARLEM

One theatre in the country which is played by practically every colored dance orchestra in the business at least once a year is the 125th Street Apollo theatre in the heart of Harlem, from which stage many "name" bands launched their professional careers.

Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway, Louis Armstrong, Count Basie, Fats Waller, Claude Hopkins, Earl Hines, Andy Kirk, as well as individual colored stars such as Bill Robinson, Ethel Waters and others, appear regularly at this theatre.

Jimmie Lunceford, who brings his famous dance band to The Pier Ballroom, Colerain Park, on Sept. 5 for one night, holds the box-office record at the Apollo theatre with gross receipts totalling $16,896 in a single week, about five hundred dollars above the previous high mark which Louis Armstrong established.

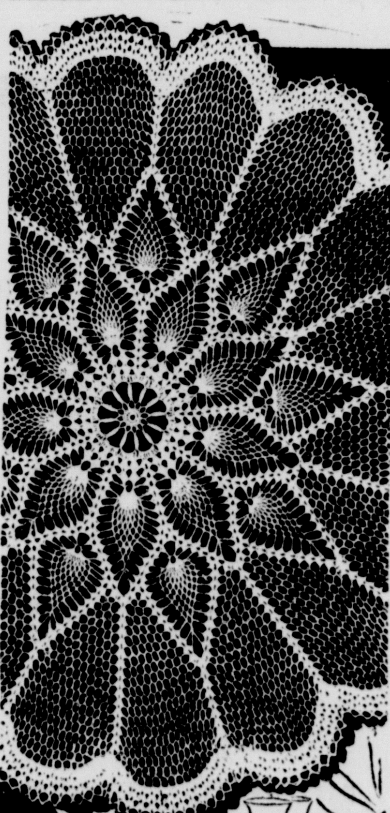

RELIEF BOARD

Board members of the Warren Relief Association will have a picnic-meeting September 9 at the summer home of Mrs. Robert Hall at Lakewood on Chautauqua Lake.

COMING AND GOING

BIG GUNS SPEAK THROUGH THE BLACK OF NIGHT

War's pace slackens on the desert at night, but flame from the muzzles of big guns lights the darkness as the artillery goes into action intermittently.

—Or it will be early next Tuesday morning, September 8, when classes begin in Warren borough schools for nearly 3,000 students of kindergarten through high school ages.

According to John G. Rossman, superintendent of borough schools, approximately 2,900 young people will start their fall school work on that date in borough buildings. Of that number, about 800 will be at Beaty Junior High for 7th, 8th and 9th grade instruction and at the high school there will be 937 resuming studies in 10th, 11th and 12th grades, exclusive of new enrollments of the current week.

About 400 of these young people come to borough schools from grade schools in the county, including Pleasant, Glade, Pittsfield, Conewango, Watson, Mead and other surrounding townships. Despite faculty difficulties encountered earlier by several nearby boards of education, Kinzua is the only school close by to be closed, with part of its pupils coming to Warren, the remainder to Bradford.

Mr. Rossman also stated today

AROUND NEW YORK

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Irving Berlin... What a musical comedy could be written around his life... What a movie could be made... His patriotism and his sincerity are so well known that it starts you to remember that he was born in Russia, that he came to the United States when he was only four, and that he was selling newspapers and listening under the doors of Bowery saloons when he was only eight years old... Helping to earn a few dimes for shoes, and for the rest of the kids at home.

The Bowery was a blowy thoroughfare in a sentimental era of drooping handlebar moustachios and foaming beer mugs when Irving Berlin tramped its stails, winding up, eventually, at Nigger Mike's... It was at Mike's that he wrote his first song, "Marie from Sunny Italy"... and until the day of her death it remained his mother's favorite song. Irving Berlin's favorite, he once told me, was "Alexander's Ragtime Band," but his wife's, the former Ellin Mackay, is "Always."

If you wrote a musical comedy around Berlin's career you would have plenty of laughs and also some heartbreak material to work with... His courtship and marriage to the daughter of the late Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph Company, in 1926, flared into headlines all around the nation, and it was only over the father's furious and bitter protests that Ellin Mackay became Irving Berlin's bride. People still talk of Mackay's sullen anger resulting from the frustration he felt when he failed to break up the match. But he failed, and it has remained like so many of Berlin's songs, a true romance, the inspiration, doubtless, of more than one of Berlin's lovelier songs.

Irving Berlin is an intensely sentimental man, and once at a surprise dinner given for him by the Friars Club he was so filled with emotion he could not acknowledge their toasts or reply to the nice things they said about him. But there was a piano handy, and Berlin sat down to it and improvised his "speech" in words and music that drew cheers from his hosts. They said it was a song that would remain published on the hearts of the listeners forever.

I WOULDN'T want to drag anything so vulgar as money into a romantic biography but the musical play "This Is The Army," which Berlin conceived for the army and which is on Broadway at the moment, will net $800,000 by time it is withdrawn in September for appearances in Washington and other cities.

Today, at the absolute height of his career, Irving Berlin is 58, the father of three daughters—Mary Ellin, Linda, Elizabeth—and doesn't weigh an ounce more than he did 25 years ago... The proof of this is in his old army uniform which Berlin wore as a Sgt. in the last war. It still fits him perfectly.

Sunday Dinner (Serving 5 or 6)
Spanish Veal Cubettes
Buttered Eggplant
Parsley Potatoes
Whole Wheat Bread Apple Butter
Green Salad
Garnish: Peach Custard
Coffee Iced Tea

Spanish Veal Cubettes
2 pounds veal steak, cut about 1/2 inch thick
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons fat
1 cup tomatoes
2 tablespoons chopped onions
1/2 cup green peppers
1 cup boiling water
Cut steak into cubes. String up on skewers, dip in flour, salt and pepper, blended. Brown in fat. Add rest of ingredients, cover tightly and cook slowly 40 minutes. If desired, this can be baked 30 minutes in a covered baking dish in a moderate oven.

All America Hails Labor's Great War Record

A LABOR DAY TRIBUTE, 1942

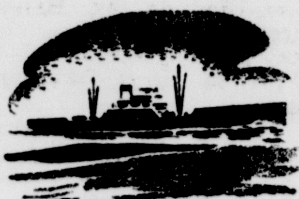

To the sons, the brothers and the loved ones of American workers who are fighting America's war on the front line, right alongside the American citizens from all other walks of life.

To the loyal working men and women who are carrying on America's victory production program on the home front, breaking production records and beating schedules every three-shift day.

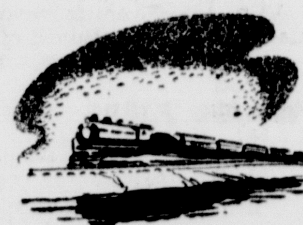

To the more than 1,100 sturdy mechanics in overalls who fought beside our Marines at Guam and Wake, and who are now prisoners of war.

To America's
submarine attacks,

tough seamen, who are sailing America's merchant ships and tankers on the high seas, braving daily carrying on, although hundreds of their fellow sailors have lost their lives in U-boat attacks.

To the railroad workers of America, who transported the record-breaking time of 6 months.

To the workers of America, who are leading America in systematic purchase of War Savings Bonds, of whom are investing over $200,000,000 a month in War Bonds, with figures mounting weekly.

over 18 million

American workers are paying their full share of the costs of this war—in blood, in sweat, in sacrifice, in taxes. They entered this war with their eyes open as free men and women, and they are determined to come out of this war free men and women. All America hails them for their loyalty, faith and determination to do their part to win the war.

MENUES OF THE DAY

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
A Defense Dinner

(Lima beans, high in protein and carbohydrates, take over the main part of a dinner).

Serving 5 Or 6

Lima Stuffed Green Peppers
Baked Carrots
Blueberry Squares
Margarine or Butter
Sliced Pineapple (Fresh or Canned)
Molasses Crisps (Crisps)
Coffee for Adults
Milk for Children

Lima Stuffed Green Peppers
1 large firm pepper
1 cup cooked lima beans
2 tablespoons pan-broiled
chopped pimientos
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt

Remove tops and seeds from peppers. Rinse and cover with cold water. Slowly bring to boiling point and simmer 1 minute. Drain and rinse in cold water. Mix rest of ingredients and stuff peppers. Arrange in shallow pan and add 1/2 inch water. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven.

Blueberry Squares
2 cups flour
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup blueberries
1/2 cup cinnamon
1/2 cup soft butter

Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in fat. Add rest of ingredients and mix lightly. Pour into shallow pan and cover with berries. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Cut in squares.

Wilder Field's gridiron sod is a beautiful green. Warren High School's line is even more so, and tomorrow the Dragon forward wall will receive the first of two acid tests this weekend that should give an honest forecast for grid fans as to what they may expect from the Leidigmen this season.

The curtain-raiser for Warren and Youngsville squads is slated to begin at three o'clock on Wilder field. Irvine, and a large crowd is anticipated as the football campaign starts rolling in this vicinity.

It is size of squad and youngsters can have any bearing on the outcome, the Dragons, despite their inexperience in many positions, retain as distinct favorites.

But of the seven linemen who will start off for the Blue and White tomorrow, only Leroy Fredrick has seen considerable varsity experience in the past, he being a letterman.

Leidig did not reveal any definite starting lineup, but it is possible that the team will begin the game with Murray Cameron and Chuck McLean at ends, John Imperial and Fredericks at tackles, John Seay and Dick Shattuck at guards, with Wayne Schmitter at center. However, either Seay or Shattuck may shift with Schmitter and take over the pivot post before game time.

The backfield is fairly well settled, with four lettermen ready to go, only Mike Bleech, whose injured hand is taking a long time healing, a possibility not to start among that quartet. Dick Kifer is expected to open at quarterback, Lloyd Dickerson and Bleech, if he is ready, at the halves and Albert Salerno in the fullback position. Others who probably will see plenty of action include Jack D'Angelo, Craig Bennett, Gerald Vesling and Gusto Arrigo, all capable but inexperienced backfield replacements.

Who will make up the Youngsville lineup is a little secret between Coach Jo Passaro and himself, and he may start almost any combination out of his squad of 20 candidates as it will be necessary for him, like Leidig, to do considerable experimenting in tomorrow's game to further acquaint himself with his best talent.

The Youngsville High school band will be on hand, and a public address system will be used to aid fans in identifying players.

The Butler Bulldogs and the Washington Redskins, scheduled at two games apiece, clash tonight at Butler in the final and deciding game for the Governor's Cup of the Penn State Baseball Association, emblematic of the league championship. Butler evened the series last night by edging out Washington 4 to 3.

DECIDE TITLE TONIGHT

Washington, Pa., Sept. 4.—(P)—The Butler Bulldogs and the Washington Redskins, scheduled at two games apiece, clash tonight at Butler in the final and deciding game for the Governor's Cup of the Penn State Baseball Association, emblematic of the league championship. Butler evened the series last night by edging out Washington 4 to 3.

BANK SHOTS

BY FLOYD PASSINGER, Sports Editor

Gregorius Mulevianus, as he's affectionately referred to by the Jamestown Post-Journal, greatest leader since the days of Caesar, will be the pilot of the Buffalo Bisons next summer, if baseball still holds forth by that time. . . . And along to Bisonville will go George Lechen, Charley Schupp, Elmer Weinschneider, Lyle Parkhurst, Charley Medlar and Pat McNair with Mulevianus. . . . They should have been playing for the Queen City this summer. . . . Then Buffalo would have probably owned an IL pennant, and the PONY League would have seen a real race. . . . Instead, PONY leaguers had to be content with that three-way meet—the Olean Oilers, Jamestown and the Falcons' shadow. . . . The Falcon shadow was included so that someone would make a running mate for the Piller charges. . . . Only body we can think of now who might catch up with the Mulevianus is the sheriff. . . . Just a reminder that season tickets for the home games to be played by WBS this fall remain on sale at the high school office and may also be purchased Monday at the first home game. . . . Better get out to that one and see Erie Academy's Dragon-eating Lions. . . . They've won every game since their series began in 1938, each time on Blue and White soil, and compiled 99 points against 13 for the locals. . . . The Leidigmen have scored only two touchdowns in the four year span, but will be out to satisfy their hunger for scores on Labor Day this year. . . . We wish to correct a statement in yesterday's column. . . . Ted Elderkin, not Pete Wilson, will meet Horace Zahn in the Maplehurst Golf club championship tournament finals. . . . There'll be no shortage of bowling leagues around the town this fall, but no one's laughing over the pin situation. . . . The Arcade, PBC and Elks all have reported similar situations in having a set of new pins ready for league action when the circuit seasons begin, but none knows when the next woods on order, will be coming along. . . . And they find they must take what they can get. . . . No choice as to size or weight this year. . . . Hope they don't send duckpins. . . . If you want to keep the boys down on the farm, better keep the farm. . . . Best investment in this case is U. S. war bonds and stamps. . . . This is September, and the biggest goal yet has been set by the Treasury department, so let's help put the drive over. . . . Happy weekend and holiday. . . . Don't forget your driver menu. Warren at Youngsville tomorrow, at home against Academy on Monday. . . .

THREE MORE ALLEY LOOPS SET TO OPEN

The total number of bowling leagues already organized and set to roll in the approaching season in the community was raised to five last night after organization meetings were held by respective groups representing the Commercial and Industrial loops.

The Commercial League unanimously chose to bowl at the Penn Bowling Center alleys, deciding upon Thursday evenings each week for their matches, while the Industrial Leagues will carry on at the Arcade Recreation and are planning to use two nights each week to avoid a late shift.

Both leagues will again field eight teams with six and possibly seven of those in the Commercial holdovers from last season, and about as many being veterans in the Industrial.

Commercial League bowlers chose to open their season September 17, matches starting at seven o'clock, all to be completed in one shift. The Industrial bowlers will begin the season September 14 and their matches at 7:15 o'clock.

The Industrial League has set Monday as a definite match night and are kicking for Tuesday evening, also, though the Knights of Columbus, who organized Wednesday evening, have also asked for Tuesday evening.

The Caseys will field the same four teams as last year: Fordham, Notre Dame, Santa Clara and Holy Cross, and will operate in much the same manner as in the past. They will also continue to bowl at the Arcade.

Forge, Corry To Meet Wed.

It was announced today that the National Forge and Corry Merchants baseball teams will play Wednesday night next week under the arcs at Loveland Park. Corry, in a game to decide who will take care of the spoils remaining in the now dismantled Tri-County Baseball League.

Despite the fact that the league failed to complete its schedule this summer, next week's contest is expected to be as good a ball game as a fan can find if entertainment is sought.

Corry and the Forge were the only title contenders in the four-team loop when it folded, so the continued membership of the other pair of clubs, from Meadville and Geneva, respectively, is unimportant at this point. The game next week will begin at eight o'clock, and a percentage of proceeds will go to an undisclosed relief fund, it was stated today.

WPAL GRID SEASON WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Pittsburgh, Sept. 4.—(P)—Nine games open the WPAL football season tonight, the earliest start for high school gridiron teams in several years.

Most of the Class AA contests, with the exception of the Ambler-Monaca game, are looked upon as workouts. Scott plays a highly touted Ford City team at North Bradock and Freedom plays Beaver Falls. Other games include Rankin at Monessen; East Bethlehem at Brownsville; Elizabeth at Clairton; Zelienople at Ellwood City; and Perryopolis at German Township.

DICKINSON COLLEGE WILL BEGIN DRILLS

Carlisle, Pa., Sept. 4.—(P)—Forty-nine football players were invited today to participate in Dickinson College's opening gridiron practice here Monday Sept. 21.

Benny James, new head coach, said the squad will include 16 freshmen, eligible for varsity competition since the "freshman rule" has been suspended for the duration of the war.

Chapter 19 The Mysterious Pyramid

THERE was not much to see, after all. Only a mat of tropical growth—rioting ferns and orchids—climbing up to a truncated top where stood the ruins of some kind of building.

Sandy walked around the base a few paces. "Doesn't look like the main pyramid. Let's go on to the next."

Several more were now visible in the shadows of the trees.

Seven pyramids there were, the tablet had stated. Sandy's heart thumped against his ribs while his eyes strained to peer ahead. He counted off the mounds as they came into his field of vision, one by one. Five—six—no, that was not a pyramid but something else. But there was the sixth, far off, just showing an edge behind the fifth. Six—six—where was Seven? It must be here. It had to be. Ah-h, thank God! There it was, hidden back of One.

The group walked slowly down the avenue between the rows of pyramids. All were silent, awed by the spectacle of so much ancient splendor.

As soon as Sandy recovered from his first ecstatic debauch he turned his attention to identifying the largest of the pyramids. With the crumbling temples atop each one this was a little difficult, but by comparing one with another and making certain deductions and allowances, Sandy at last satisfied himself that the pyramid opposite the open end of the square was higher by several feet than any of the others. He reasoned, also, since that pyramid commanded the finest perspective it would logically support the temple of the principal god.

While he spoke he examined the wall that still towered above the ruins. It was about forty feet wide all around the pyramid. And the temple is over two hundred feet across, I'd say, on this side. One of the largest I've ever heard about."

He spoke he examined the wall that still towered above the ruins. It was about forty feet wide all around the pyramid. And the temple is over two hundred feet across, I'd say, on this side. One of the largest I've ever heard about."

A Path Is Ready

AS THEY came closer, Sandy noted something else which not only set that particular pyramid apart from the others, but also raised a puzzling question. For, the humus which had accumulated upon the masonry of all the pyramids over the years since their abandonment appeared to be hacked away upon the large pyramid for a space of several feet, from bottom to top. This phenomenon was still more evident when they reached the base of the mound and looked up the steep flight of stairs which led to the summit.

"What do you make of it, chief?" Gil burst out.

Sandy inspected the lower steps carefully where the original stone was exposed in a wide swath.

"No marks to show what happened and the vines grow so fast it is impossible to determine how long ago the earth was removed, but it's my guess that some archeologists have been here before us—within the last year or so."

His words dropped into a silence. He knew that Gil and Helen were thinking that if an archeologist had been there before them it could be no one but Fleming!

Tyra had stooped to examine the masonry so that her face just then was not visible. But she straightened and said musingly: "No archeologist could have been here within the last six months or we'd have known it, I'm sure."

Helen snapped, "But you said you never came near these pyramids."

"That's true," Tyra admitted. "And I have explored only a small section of the plateau—mostly near the rim. Anything could have happened back here without our knowing it—still—if there had been white men they would have been shooting game and we would have heard some of the shots."

We won't stop to solve the mystery now," Sandy broke in. "We have more important business with this pyramid. I'll go ahead; the rest of you follow, several steps apart, so if anyone falls he won't knock over the one behind. Gil, you'd better take the rear."

Gil said humorously, "Maybe we should rope ourselves together like mountain climbers."

"We're all accustomed to fancy foot work by now," Sandy said. "But we're lucky to have these steps already cut. Saves us some machete work."

He set his feet upon the narrow tread of the ancient steps. Helen fell in behind, then Tyra.

There was a hush over the forest that made human voices out of place. Orchids and ferns and flowering vines blanketed the mound like a hanging garden. Huge moths with protruding eyes drifted over the flowers. In the translucent light, they resembled fish swimming among seaweeds.

It was slow going, for the steps were not only narrow and steep but uneven as well. Then he began to have an hallucination of standing still no matter what effort he put forth to lift himself from step to step.

"Am I going mad?" he asked himself. And another part of him answered, "Only the spell of ancient places."

Yet he was relieved when he reached the top at last. He waited for the others. They came laboriously, one by one, and stood beside him, not speaking. He could see that they, too, were strangely affected.

Dodgers and Redbirds Win Shutouts; Bosox Gain On N. Y. Yankees

Associated Press Sports Writer

When the Brooklyn Dodgers bought big Buck Newson from the Washington Senators last Monday for a price now understood to have been $25,000, plus a minor league pitcher, they said they would be satisfied if the veteran won three games in the stretch drive for the National League pennant.

On that basis, the showboat's debut for the Dodgers yesterday at Cincinnati was worth $8,333.33 and Newson, with his rare ability for a grand gesture, provided a performance to meet the value.

He shut out the Cincinnati Reds 2-0 on four scattered hits, no two in one inning, and struck out eight in an almost airtight hurling duel with Johnny Vander Meer, who fanned eight and allowed only four.

New York hopefuls, Helen Bernady and Mrs. Helen Pedersen Ribbany.

Frankie Parker still looked like the man to beat. He was a smooth machine, sailing along under perfect control and with plenty of power to spare, as he ran down Seymour Greenberg, the national clay court champion, yesterday, 6-0, 6-0, 6-4.

safeties before being removed for a pinch hitter in the last of the eighth inning.

However, Vandy had one wild spot and it cost him an unearned run and eventually defeat. In the third inning he walked the first two men up, Augie Galan and Arky Vaughan. Newson grounded out an unusual double play, erasing Galan and himself and putting Vaughan on second, but Eric Tipton dropped Peeewe Reese's liner to centerfield for a two-base error and Vaughan scored.

The victory, closing Brooklyn's last western swing of the season, kept the Dodgers 4½ games ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who crushed the New York Giants 7-0 behind the four-hit hurling of Lefty Howard Pollet.

In the American League the speeding Boston Red Sox gained half a game on the idle New York Yankees by smothering the Detroit Tigers 2-0 on four-hit hurling by Bill Butland, while the Washington Senators turned the tables on the Chicago White Sox and swept a doubleheader 3-2 and 14-0, getting the stupendous sum of 20 hits off Thornton Lee and Ed Weiland in the second game.

Chapter 20 The Hidden Menace

DESCENDING to the next level they found themselves in a corridor with stuccoed walls and cement floor. A brief examination showed nothing of special interest.

More stairways and corridors and alcoves and narrow chambers.

Sandy had lost count of the levels they had descended, but presently he became conscious of a breath of air against his face. He halted at once.

"Is it my imagination, or do the rest of you smell something?"

"Smoke, maybe," Tyra said. "Only it is more pungent."

"Snap out your lights and let's stand here a minute."

At once they were enveloped in a darkness so complete that they could feel it pushing against them. Even their breaths seemed to come from beings outside themselves. Sandy did not know why he listened, but he did, intently. And he thought he heard a sound far off, an echoing sound—but it was gone before he could identify it. He pressed his torch switch for the darkness had become unbearable.

"There is certainly a current of air. It could hardly come from above unless there is a system of air-shafts and that is unlikely. We didn't notice any drafts on the higher levels."

"Another thing," Gil remarked. "For being so low in these catacombs the air is surprisingly fresh."

Another flight of steps lay before them. With more than usual caution Sandy descended. And the bottom was a vestibule, but larger than many they had passed above. Sandy's light played upon a door space ahead. His pulse quickened. Another half dozen steps and he stood in the door itself. He peered into the dark shadows made by the electric torch and held his breath, actually held his breath, in wonder.

It was a limestone cavern! Stalactites, glistening with moisture, dripped from the ceiling like a maze of icicles. The floor was powdered limestone. But these things caught Sandy's attention only momentarily. It was upon the objects in the cavern that his scientist's eyes lingered.

Inscribed stelae lined the walls like rows of sentinels. And in the center was an altar in the form of a square-legged stone of massive proportions. Rearing high on each end of the altar was the carved replica of a snake's head, the eyes glowing in the beam of the torch, the jaws open and rapacious. Since the whole altar was painted a vivid green, the effect was startlingly life-like in the weird light of the chamber.

"This is the ceremonial hall of the god," Sandy heard himself saying. "And there's our altar."

A voice inside him echoed. "But where are the guardians men-Where? The stone snakes, of course."

Under The Altar

FASCINATED, they all stared into the stalactite-hung cavern.

Gil said in a strained voice unlike his usual hearty tones. "What a job of natural phenomena! Do you suppose those old buzzards selected this site for their greatest temple because they could make use of these caves under their feet?"

"Hard to tell," Sandy answered, shaking his head. "The ancient Mayas never did anything twice in just the same way, it seems. That's one reason their civilization is so interesting to archeologists. And so puzzling."

He advanced toward the altar, sending the light beam over the lifted snakes' heads.

"The paint looks bright, chief," Gil remarked. "Do you think it could have been put on during Old Empire?"

Sandy's light moved along the top of the flat stone altar. "Probably the tribe that escaped with the codex kept it in repair until they migrated elsewhere or were wiped out. But here's another odd thing. Incense burners on the altar with the smell of copal still in them."

"That was what we smelled in the corridors," Gil said.

"But the smell of copal wouldn't hang in here long," Sandy pointed out, his brows knitting. He picked up an incense cup and turned the torch into it. "I'd stake my reputation this has been in use recently."

Tyra's voice, echoing sharply through the cavern, made them start.

"I think I hear something."

Instantly they all froze to attention. Was there a faint rustling sound or was it the result of an over-active imagination?

Sandy said, "Air currents in the passages. We'll get to work on the altar."

He directed his light beneath the stone slab. A space of about sixteen inches showed under the squat legs. Stooping, Sandy scraped away the chalky limestone dust of the uneven floor. His fingers explored the stone.

"There seems to be a slip mortar here," he announced, after a breathless moment.

"Lord, chief," Gil burst out. "Do you think we've finally found the Maya key?"

Flight

HE CLIPPED off the last word, realizing, apparently, that he had revealed their secret to Tyra. Sandy still scraping at the dust heard her say quickly, "Oh! It's the famous lost Rosetta-stone of the Mayas that you're hunting, then!"

Helen asked: "You know about it, Tyra?"

Everyone who has lived in Mexico or who knows about it, Tyra stated, but there was a tremor of emotion in her voice. She added hurriedly, "What makes you believe it might be under this particular altar, Sandy?"

Sandy glanced up, grinning. "I told you. That's a long story. I'll tell you about it when I have more time."

Her eyes, in the light of the torches, were round and somehow troubled. Her lips parted as if she intended to speak again, then closed firmly.

Sandy bent again to work at the mortar slab with his machete. It had not been disturbed for a long time, he knew. Carefully he worked around the edge, chipping away at the mortar. There was an urge upon him to hurry. He did not know why.

Gil held up a light. The girl stood back. There was no sound but the metal of the machete against the stone.

It was coming loose! Sandy could feel it give a little beneath his strokes. In a few minutes he could lift it out! Then he would know whether the inscription on the tablet had been true or false. "Listen!" Tyra interrupted the silence again. "There is something!"

Sandy heard it now—an echoing sound, that might be someone calling through the corridor overhead, or might be rocks tumbling down a slope.

He stood up, tense, not breathing. There was menace in the air palpable, vibrant.

The Guardians of the codex! Maybe. It didn't matter. The codex must be caught here. He couldn't let Tyra and Helen in to God only knew what danger.

"Come on," he shouted, and started across the cavern floor.

He thought he was heading for the doorway, but all sides looked alike in the shadows. His torch played upon the wall before him and found a gap, and it was no until he had plunged through it that he realized it was not the entrance.

Advance of Enemy

Said To Be Costly

to have withstood several attacks and destroyed six tanks and wiped out more than 150 Germans.

"In the Mordok area (of the central Caucasus) our troops fought and wiped out an enemy group which had crossed a water line," the communique said. "The Terek river flows past Mordok and the Grozny oil fields on its way to the Caspian Sea."

The Germans were pictured as attacking southwestern defenses of Stalingrad ceaselessly with large forces in a narrow sector, tanks seeking to open paths for infantrymen.

"At a cost of enormous losses the Hitlerites succeeded in making a slight advance," the communique said. "In other sectors the enemy attacks were repulsed with heavy losses."

Soviet riflemen supported by tanks were declared to have broken into enemy positions above the city.

A Stalingrad dispatch said German planes, flying from various points of the compass, were attacking the city regularly in waves of 150 or more.

Reinforcements were declared to have given the German command a superiority of two or three to one over the Russians on some sectors.

Berlin (From German Broadcasts) Sept. 4.—(P)—German troops have fought their way to the western suburbs of Stalingrad and vanguards from the Nazi army of the Crimea are now assisting in operations against the Russian-held Caucasian Black Sea coast, German authorities announced today.

WOMAN LOSES FOUR BROTHERS IN ACTION

Hanford, Calif., Sept. 4.—(P)—Four brothers of Mrs. Robert H. Fisher—of the nine, who with her husband and her father, answered the call to arms—have been killed in action. Three of the brothers died in the Philippines, she said yesterday, and the fourth in a Pacific naval action.

Her father, J. C. Berquist, is serving with an infantry company and her husband is in the air force. At home are two small sons—very proud of the family.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Anna Neagle and her producer-director, Herbert Wilcox, have brought back from England their new picture, which is splendid, and their old problem concerning their next one. Shall it be serious, or another of those musicals?

"Wings and the Woman" is definitely serious. It is the life story of Amy Johnson Mollison, England's great aviatrix who lost her life serving her country as a ferry pilot.

Anna Neagle's performance is best described by the reaction of Amy Mollison's parents when they saw the film in England. They sat in silence for many moments after the screening, then they thanked Anna Neagle. They called her "Amy." It is such a fine piece of work that her return now to such frivolities as "No, No Nanette!" is practically unthinkable.

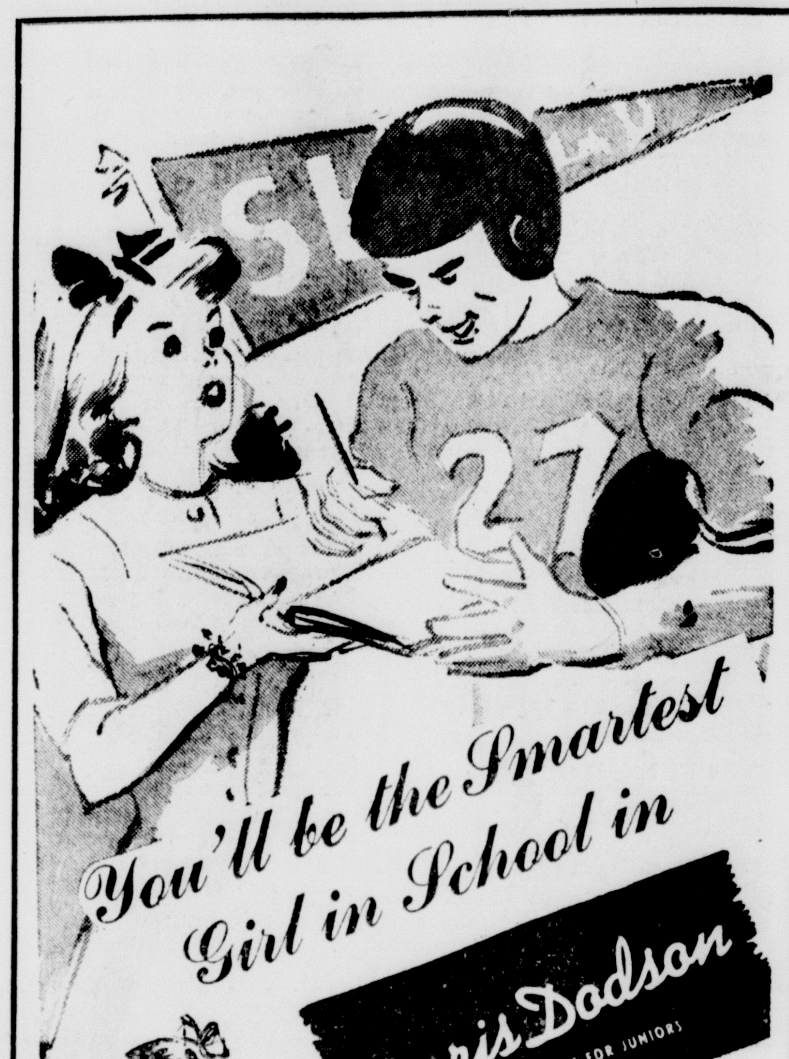

THE Wilcox-Neagle team has one film to do in Hollywood before returning to England. Their inclination is to do another with a bearing on the war effort. Miss Neagle has always preferred her dramatic films to her musicals—a preference not always shared by the fans who pay the freight, as she admits. And now the idea of a purely escapist movie has no appeal to her. The war is too big, too much in the people's minds to attempt ignoring it—and Miss Neagle believes that pictures have no more rights than other industries to business as usual.

Her producer is of similar mind. "It's very hard to tell what the public wants," he says, "but it is certain there has been a revolt against the philosophies of the 1920's—the F. Scott Fitzgerald—Flaming Youth—pseudo-smartness school. There is no place now for the old stories of society people and their trivial problems. And when we make dramas, appealing to people's emotions, we have to be sure that our subject is big enough, important enough, to be worthy of their interest—and their tears. We might say that people, torn by the war, have begun to ration their emotions—with none to spare for small tragedies."

"WINGS and the Woman" was made at the Denham studios. German incendiaries burned out the players' dressing rooms during production, but fortunately no high explosive bombs fell nearby. Robert Newton (the Jim Mollison who will have the ladies raving) had a six-week furlough from his missusweeper in the channel to play the role. Wardrobe and sets were of strictly rationed material. On adjoining stages David Niven, on furlough from the Commandos, Richard Greene, Leslie Howard and Noel Coward were all making movies. Furloughs for picture work are granted readily.

Newton's characterization of Mollison as a charming if unreliable husband is unusual in that it had Mollison's approval. The divorced husband of Amy Johnson, himself a famous flier, told Wilcox he did not care in what light he was shown if only the picture would show what he was doing now. It does. Mollison is ferrying bombers to Africa—a perilous, vital war job.
